Meet Your Mailman

"Pomp"
That's what they used to call him in Rockland High School, but his real name of course is Palmer M. Pease. An interesting incident of his school career was his election as "mayor," in which capacity he served on that memorable day when Rockland High School students were nominally (and joyfully) in charge of municipal affairs.

Pease was born in Appleton Jan. 7, 1908, and after graduating from Rockland High School in 1927 attended the Western Union Simplex School in Bloomfield, N. J.

Before joining the Rockland letter carrier force he served in the varying capacities as truck driver, assistant shipping clerk and pressman, serving the Modern Pants Company eight years in the last named capacity.

His present carrier route is No. 2, Rockland Highlands and he is vice president of the Local Branch of the Maine Letter Carriers' Association.

Essentially a lover of the outdoors Palmer's hobby is athletics.

ANOTHER RED JACKET COMING

New Steamship Will Bear Name Of Famous Rockland Clipper Ship

Mayor E. R. Veazie was notified today by Robert W. Horton, director of the Division of Maritime Promotion and Information, that on May 20 the United States Maritime Commission will launch the dry cargo ship Red Jacket which has been named in honor of the American clipper ship Red Jacket which was built in Rockland in 1853.

The Red Jacket is the holder of the Trans-Atlantic eastbound passenger record from New York to Liverpool established in 1853-1854, of 13 days and 1 hour.

The steamship Red Jacket will be christened by Mrs. Irene Moran of Rockland, whose husband is a member of the Maritime Commission.

The craft is scheduled to have its trials on the Rockland Course sometime in August, and the timely suggestion is made this would be an opportune moment for the city to celebrate the homecoming of the descendant of its most famous ship.

Mayor Veazie has taken the matter up with Commissioner Moran, offering to the latter prompt assurance of co-operation on the part of the City and the Chamber of Commerce.

Rockland owes that much to the Maritime Commission.

Montpelier Opening

Will Take Place May 30—Banner Year For Mansion Expected

A meeting of the board of directors of Knox Memorial Association was held at Montpelier Friday to make plans for the opening of the Memorial on May 30. The Home Industries Shop will open in June.

The president, Mrs. Anne Snow, gave a broadcast on "Montpelier" Thursday from station WLBZ in which she gave briefly the history of the present "Montpelier" which is a replica of Gen. Knox's original Montpelier. As this is conveniently located on the Atlantic Highway going east from Thomaston it has been visited by thousands of people who have expressed their appreciation or both the building and its contents. Many think it equal to Mt. Vernon.

The mansion contains 19 rooms and all are resplendent with beautiful and priceless furnishings. A great many of the pieces belonged to Gen. Knox, others are of the same period. There is an effect of dignity and restfulness throughout the house and in spite of the numerous pieces of furniture placed in these rooms there is an entire absence of crowding.

One of the most valuable relics is Knox's traveling case. It is a handsome mahogany box containing a small china tea set, cutlery and toilet articles.

Four of the rooms are papered with copies of the original wall paper, namely: the drawing room, dining room, Caroline's (daughter) room and the Chippendale room. The others are all reproductions of Colonial design.

The Flying Staircase is also an object of interest. The children's room attracts old and young with its doll in a quaint doll carriage and the dolls' furniture and toys.

The kitchen is another center of interest with the old fashioned fire place and brick oven surrounded by the cooking utensils and other household implements so essential to any Colonial household.

In speaking of the Home Industries Shop Mrs. Snow pointed out the advantage it is to the men and women in its vicinity by providing this market for their leisure time handwork. It is also of advantage to the people who wish to purchase hand made articles, and from its success in the past it has proved of great value to the Association as the income from this shop has added about $1,000 each year to the treasury.

Desiring to be self-supporting the Knox Memorial Association is desirous of securing a larger annual membership and also wishes to add to the endowment fund. This fund has been increased by bequests and gifts until now it amounts to about $10,200. The interest only, from this fund, is available for current expenses.

This year marks the 150th anniversary of Gen. Knox's appointment to Washington's Cabinet and the Association is hoping that it will prove a banner year for Montpelier.

MAINE MUSIC CLUBS
Federation Holds Annual Sessions In Lincoln—Rockland Represented

The annual convention of the Maine Federation of Music Clubs in Lincoln May 4-6 was presided over by the retiring president Mrs. S. Merrill Farnum of Lewiston. An address of welcome was given by Rev. Hugh A. Quills. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Frank Hall, president of the hostess club and response was by Mrs. Faith Berry of Rockland. Wonderful hospitality was shown to the guests by the Harmony Club, by the Lincoln Hotel management, by the churches and by the whole citizenry.

Letters of greeting were read from Mrs. Ober president of the National Federation; Mrs. Ethelbert Nevins, and Mrs. George Hall, "mother" of the Federation.

Business sessions in the Congregational Church were interspersed with musical numbers. The concerts were held in Cobb Hall of the Academy.

Members and guests attending from Rockland included Mrs. Faith Berry, Mrs. Grace Strout, Miss Dorothy Lawry, Mrs. Nathalie Snow, Mrs. Dora Bird, Miss Margaret Simmons, Miss Faith Brown, Mrs. Alden Ulmer, Miss Alice Erskine, Mrs. Lillian Joyce, Miss Mabel Spring and Mrs. Ruth Collier of Camden.

Miss Lawry went as a delegate from, and Mrs. Collier as a representative of the Rubinstein Club. Miss Lawry is to be the incoming president, taking the place of Mrs. Strout who will become district director filling the office which has been held by Mrs. Bird, who will be transferred to another department.

The Thursday evening concert was given by the Bangor Symphony orchestra, conductor Adelbert Wells Sprague. It presented a very choice program.

Among prominent features of the day session was the talk on "Percussion Instruments," with illustrations by Francis G. Shaw of Bangor. An address, "The Passion Play" by Harry L. Scott of Sanford, who was also toastmaster at the banquet; and the playing of Mrs. Augusta Jenkins of Bangor, convention organist, in various ensembles with other instruments, varied with vocal solos, duets and trios.

The presentation of Friday evening was by representatives of Senior organizations. It was on this program that Mrs. Collier played the C Minor and G Minor Preludes by Chopin—proving herself an outstanding artist of whom her club friends may be proud. The Federal Tea and luncheons were held in the church parlors and the banquets at the Lincoln House all delightful occasions.

Saturday was Junior day with its strong appeal to children, especially those of the rural districts. The Gardiner Choral Society has extended an invitation to the Maine Federation to hold its Convention in Gardiner next year.

The following list of State officers was elected for two years: President, Mrs. Everett L. Littlefield; first vice president, Miss Ida M. Folsom; second vice president, Mrs. Foster L. Haviland; third vice president, Miss Mary H. Bennett; recording secretary Mrs. Fred P. Stevens; treasurer, Mrs. Edward F. Berry, director of Portland District, Mrs. Agnes Skillin Tibbetts; director of Lewiston District, Miss Exilia M. Blouin; director of Augusta District, Mrs. Grace M. Strout; director of Bangor District, Mrs. Ethel Cameron; director of Aroostook District, Mrs. Lewis Krieger.

Great plans are being laid for the National Biennial Convention to be held in Baltimore May 16-23. Miss Mabel Spring will represent the Rubinstein Club there.

MARTINSVILLE CHURCH

The matter of rebuilding the Martinsville Baptist Church, recently razed by fire, is being considered by the parish, though no definite decision has been reached as yet. Insurance to the amount of $1000 was held. The loss was approximately $6500. Rev. J. Wesley Stuart, who was first on the scene, is certain that the blaze started in the interior of the church, presumably from a defective flue. The grass fire, at first thought to have caused the blaze, did not come within 60 feet of the building with the wind blowing in the opposite direction.

[EDITORIAL]

ANOTHER POWERFUL APPEAL

It is reassuring to know that in these perilous days there are two men of tremendous influence willing to sound the tocsin in the interest of peace. It would be doubly pleasing if there could be any assurance that the appeals were falling upon receptive ears. The appeal by President Franklin D. Roosevelt set the world to thinking—although the world had been doing that pretty seriously long before that—but the next result seems to have been the sneering retort made by the king of all dictators, Herr Hitler, in his recent address to the Reich. And now comes the appeal of Pope Plus XII—a voice out of the heart of one of the belligerent nations. The Pope's plea broadcast from Vatican City to the Eucharistic Congress at Algiers, asks for that peace so ardently desired by "uneasy humanity."

The Pope again exhorted the world to pray for "the peace promised to men of good will, peace in souls troubled by the appeals and seductions of false doctrines, peace among nations trembling in unceasing anxiety." He mentioned by inference the tension in the Mediterranean, saying that "neither the churning waves of the sea nor the fracas of armaments which shake the shores" had been able to disturb the "mystic elan" of those attending the congress. He called its communicants to remember his appeal April 20 for a "crusade of prayer" for peace during the month of May, especially by children whom he called "those privileged ones of the saviour."

To an appeal of this character, and from this source, there will be no such answer as the one vouchsafed to President Roosevelt, not even by a dictator so obsessed with his own importance as Adolf Hitler. That the appeal, made with such unmistakable earnestness, and such a strong sense of justice, will have the slightest effect is beyond the expectations of the most optimistic. It will show, however, that even in an aggressor nation, there is a sentiment which would avert bloodshed and the conquest of powers unable to defend themselves.

ON THE HIGH SEAS

Aboard the Empress of Australia, bound for a visit to Canada and the United States, comes a Royal couple—King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. Every inch of their passage across the Atlantic will be followed with prayerful interest, and the culmination of that voyage on May 15 will find the people of two countries awaiting with outstretched arms to bestow a welcome that is always the strongest when it comes from the heart. The visit comes at a time when the Americans and their British cousins have so much in common, and when their allegiance to each other has a national as well as a personal significance. It will be the outstanding event of the New York's World Fair, and when the Royal Couple sail for home again it will be with a new realization of the greatness and the cordiality of the nation across the sea.

CONSISTENT METHODISM

The United Methodist Church, holding its sessions in Kansas City, is still the implacable enemy of rum, and overwhelmingly refused to relax the rules effecting the use of alcohol by members. The liquor section of the new discipline also forbids any member to sign a petition for a liquor license, to act as attorney for anyone seeking a license, or to rent property for use in the sale or manufacture of liquors. The section was adopted verbatim from the discipline of the northern branch of the church. A minister said the South Church discipline did not make a trial mandatory for a member "using" liquor, but that difference was not discussed.

On the Northend skyline has risen over night a huge four-story building, which a few months hence will spell a new and impressive industry. It tells to the world of an achievement which the Rockland Chamber of Commerce has long yearned to sponsor. It breathes new hope for citizens who have long been under a depressing influence.

"The Black Cat"

By The Roving Reporter

When I was a kid, living at home, the approach of a hen hawk gave me almost as much of a fright as it did the mother of a brood of chickens. "And yet," says Harold D. Mitchell, secretary of the Buffalo Audubon Society, "the hawk is not the dastardly character he has been painted. Most people look upon hawks as either hen hawks or chicken hawks. As a matter of fact, there are at least ten kind of hawks, of which only two might be considered destructive enough to warrant their extermination by man. The others are, for the most part, decidedly beneficial, because they destroy rodents and eat many kinds of harmful insects."

Old-time theatre-goers will recall the Bennett-Moulton Company which used to appear regularly at Farwell Opera House. On the night of Oct. 7, 1903, it presented "Shipwrecked," and on the following night its offering was to be "In the Sultan's Palace."

Almost time to put out the green benches in front of local places of business. They furnish comfort for many visiting shoppers.

"Traveling on nine" was an expression which Rockland used to hear a great deal during the existence of the Rockland, Thomaston & Camden Street Railway. When the arrow pointed to the figure 9 on the control box the trolley cars were doing their darndest.

There are many places where the front is not yet out of the ground, and probably not many places where the peas are. Mr. Leonard, master of the City Farm, can point to one of the latter.

Fred C. Green, a very necessary adjunct to the staff of the Boston Evening Transcript, tells me this one about the late Frank Collier, "cartoonist extraordinary."

"Years ago," writes Fred, "when we both worked on the old Boston Journal, I was running a smoker for a boat and canoe club of which I was a member and which was slowly disintegrating. We had a shoe-string budget to work on. I hired some boxing bouts, bummed a quartet and one or two other entertainers and offered Collier $10 and his fares to give a cracker talk. He wanted that $10 but didn't know what to do to earn it and was scared stiff. We cooked up a program for him and he went through and was given a fine reception. That opened his eyes and within a few years he was refusing offers at $75 and $100 a night."

Two bad there can't be some kind of a W.P.A. project whereby the sand and gravel could be swept from the city's dirty sidewalks.

Garden conscious in defiance of the Weather Man's surly scowl, a subscriber writes in to say that she has hit on a gardening gadget which may or may not be original; she thinks it is, and at any rate it's costless, and that's something. Nails of varying length driven in the end of a stick make an excellent dirt loosener and eliminate a few kinks in the back from bending or squatting (apologies to Philco). It is less cumbersome than a hoe and can be used in a closer approach to the plant.

The horse has come to be almost a strange critter on the city streets, and with the horse has gone the old familiar hitching post which used to stand in front of stores and houses. Two exceptions are seen in front to the residences of Dr. F. F. Brown and ex-Mayor E. L. Brown. Perhaps others.

One year ago: Fifteen divorces were granted at the May term of Superior Court. — University of Maine scholarships were awarded to Edith H. Stevens of Pleasant Point, Alvahene M. Pierson of Tenants Harbor, and Wiljo M. Lindel of Warren. — Capacity audiences greeted Jimmie and Dick.—Mrs. Benjamin F. Gribben died in Portland.—Mary Perry Rich was again elected president of the Woman's Educational Club.

THREE LOVES

[For The Courier-Gazette]
There were three maidens who loved a King:
They sat together beside the sea;
One cried, "I love him, and I would die
If but for one day he might love me!"
The second whispered, "And I would die
To gladden his life, or make him great."
The third spoke not, but gazed afar,
With dreamy eyes that were sad as Fate.
The king he loved the first for a day,
The second his life with fond love blest,
And yet the woman who never spoke
Was the one of the three who loved him best.

TALK OF THE TOWN

The navy recruiting office in Portland announces that the Navy Department has issued instructions that the term of enlistment of applicants will be for six years instead of four effective July 1, also that the age limits have been changed from 17 to 25 to 18 to 25. The quota allotted to this district is 14 men for the month of May. Men desiring information about enlistment may write or call at the Navy Recruiting Station in the Federal Building in Portland.

With the poignant sentiment that salt water breeds in the blood, General Manager Stinson of the Vinalhaven & Rockland Steamboat Co., this morning ordered into service on the crack twin screw steamer W. S. White, the whistle of the defunct steamer Vinalhaven. Thus the voices of the original steamers, Gov. Bodwell and Vinalhaven, which have echoed over Penobscot Bay waters since 1893, will again come into their own. The Bodwell's whistle is at present on steamer North Haven which comes off the run today for spring overhauling. Both whistles have been salvaged from fire and foundering.

John M. Richardson of The Courier-Gazette was guest Monday of Press Club at Rockland High School and told a highly interested group of boys and girls about "The Practical Aspects of Newspaper Production," touching upon principal features of journalistic work with an avoidance of technicalities. Mr. Richardson is a former submaster of Rockland High School, and his appearances before that institution are always hailed with pleasure by faculty and student body. In place of its regular meeting next Monday the High School Press Club will visit The Courier-Gazette plant and see what makes the wheels go around.

Three students from Rockland and neighboring vicinity at University of Maine, were awarded Scholarships at the Scholarship Recognition Day held in Orono today. Frederick Perry, son of Mrs. Helen D. Details Of the Vinalhaven Game Show Chisholm Had Tough Luck

Next Week's Games Tuesday—Rockland at Lincoln; Vinalhaven at Thomaston; St. George at Camden.

Friday—Thomaston at Rockland; Lincoln at Camden; St. George at Vinalhaven.

Vinalhaven 4, Rockland 1

Buddy Chisholm and Phil Brown hooked up in an old fashioned pitcher's battle at Vinalhaven Friday and Vinalhaven won the opening game of the 1939 season. Brown had a decided edge in strikeouts, fanning 15 men, to Chisholm's eight. All four Vinalhaven runs were unearned and it was a tough game for Chisholm to lose. Billings triple batted in Rockland's lone run. Vinalhaven fans have been hearing reports of this boy and he looks like a very good player both at bat and afield.

Duff made a fine running catch for the fielding feature of the game. "Crow" Johnson, Vinalhaven's rookie catcher, caught a very good game. Vinalhaven plays in Thomaston today. During the last three years Vinalhaven and Thomaston have played extra inning games each year at Thomaston. It should be a great battle. Friday's score:

GREGORY'S

JUNIORS WON THE MEET

With a Zero For Poor Old Sophs—David Mazzeo High Point Man

This year's inter-class track meet of Rockland High School proved to be the most spirited and closely contested for several years. The Juniors and Seniors were fighting it out neck and neck and the outcome of which was not decided until the last event, the 440 yard dash in which the Juniors scored a first, a third and fourth place and with it the meet, to amass a grand total of 61 points to 52½ for the Seniors who were last year's winners.

The Juniors kept themselves in the contest through the fine running of David Mazzeo who scored four firsts and a tie for first to be high point man of the meet, with 24 points, and the all around performance of Gus Huntley who scored in eight different events for a total of 18½ points. Robert Ulmer was another junior who contributed 13½ points to his team's success.

The high point man for the Seniors was "Nick" Nicholas who was only two points back of Mazzeo for a total of 22. Johnson of the Seniors also turned in an excellent performance with his 21½ points.

The weather conditions were ideal and the contestants were spurred on by a small but enthusiastic gallery of spectators. For the first time in the history of the inter-class meet a class failed to score a single point. The sophomores had the somewhat dubious honor of being the only class ever to amass a big round goose egg in this annual classic. The summary follows Juniors 61, Seniors 52½, Sophomores 0, Freshman 7½.

100 Yard Dash—First, Mazzeo, J.; second, Snow, F.; third, Huntley, J.; fourth, Spinney, J.

220 Yard Dash—First, Mazzeo, J.; second, Huntley, J.; third, Ulmer, J.; fourth, Rogers, J.

880 Yard Dash—First, Mazzeo, J.; second, Ulmer, J.; third, Huntley, J.; fourth, Allen, J.

Hail High School!

Won Championship Last Night in the Women's Bowling League

The High School team won the championship in the women's bowling league last night, defeating Soule's team, winner of the second half, 71 pins on the total. In the first string, Soule's had the lead, until in her last box, Evelyn Willis came through with a five-pin spare to tie the string. The second string went to the High School by 53 pins, and the third by 18.

It was a good match all the way, and excitement was at a high pitch. Spares and strikes were slow in coming, but when they did start, they came thick and fast.

STONINGTON

Granite Contract Secured Joy reigns in this community due to a new contract recently obtained by the John L. Goss quarry.

The job is for the City of Providence, where a $1,000,000 municipal pier is being built. The Goss contract calls for 85,000 tons of split stone, of which about one-eighth will require some finishing.

The schedule calls for the delivery of nearly 10,000 tons a month. Nearly 100 men will be employed, 75 or 80 of whom will be quarrymen, the rest cutters.

The work will be started as soon as the PWA gives the word.

Warren

Gets Golden Sheaf

A. J. Moody Third Member Pleasant Valley Grange Thus Honored

White Oak Grange of North Warren was honor guests of Pleasant Valley Grange at its last meeting with Owl's Head Grange as special guests. The event was planned for the Golden Sheaf Cerebral for Austin J. Moody who has been a member of the Grange 50 years, joining White Oak at 14, in March 22, 1889 and affiliating with Pleasant Valley Dec. 22, 1903. Brother Moody has been an active member and has been placed on the honor roll and given a life membership. There are however, very few to receive such an honor. Mr. Moody was presented with a Golden Sheaf Certificate, which is a beautiful booklet of parchment paper with gold and blue letters. There are two other such members, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farrand. Pleasant Valley Grange has every reason to be proud and prosperous with members such as these. Officers of both Granges assisted in the presentation. The ceremony was especially dedicated to Brother Moody and planned by the secretary in his honor. Surprises seemed to continue when the assistant stewards were requested to escort the secretary to the Master's station where she was presented with a past lecturer's jewel by her Grange associates as a birthday gift, a token of appreciation for the assistance she has sincerely and faithfully given this Grange.

The program was as follows: "Hail to the Harvest," by the Grange; reading Sister Emma Kallio of White Oak Grange; piano solos, Mrs. Rogers; songs and tap dance, Beverly Cogan; guitar and songs, Russell and Leona Hickman; solos, Sister Josephine Buckminster of Owl's Head Grange; reading, Sybil Anderson, "The Old Violin;" reading, Elena Fredette, "He Didn't;" remarks by several including W. M. Mank of White Oak, W. O. Anderson of Owl's Head Grange and P. M. Herbert Gould of Megunticook Grange.

The hall was filled with patrons and the lecturer presented a bouquet of flowers to all over 50. The mystery prize (a bird house) was won by Myron Young. Refreshments were served by Sisters Young and Hickman. Past officers' roll was called. Lecturers answered by 16, masters represented by 10 and stewards next by nine. All stations were represented and totaled 100. Visitors were present from White Oak, Owl's Head, Megunticook, Penobscot View, Wessaweskeag and Good Will Granges.

The cabin cruiser Alva, which had just been bought by Herbert George of Portland, was towed to this port Sunday morning by a Coast Guard patrol boat which had pulled the craft off the ledge near Lincolnville Beach. The engine had become disabled. Repairs will be made here.

Marston W. Woodman, who formerly resided in this city, was a visitor here Saturday looking up some of the friends of his youth. Mr. Woodman is now located in Portland as treasurer of the Maine Malt Beverage Retail Association at 51 Free street.

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK

This is National Music Week—May 7-14, and again we are asked to keep in mind the desirability of utilizing the occasion to assist and strengthen all the community's organizations and agencies which are advancing the art of music and are promoting its enjoyment among the people as a whole.

Echoing the words of President Roosevelt in his advocacy of National Music Week, an undertaking "which makes the public more keenly alive to the available resources in musical talent in local communities and the means by which such talent when discovered may be developed and utilized," should be welcomed. The homes and schools hold a tremendous power to develop an appreciation of good music, in furnishing opportunities for young people to listen to music of cultural value, and to learn some of the skills by which they themselves may reproduce or create music of merit. Schools, churches, libraries, motion picture houses, radio, press, music clubs, women's clubs, parent-teacher associations, fraternal bodies, and other organizations are asked to make observations of National Music Week in some way.

In the schools special programs are urged, with fitting tribute to the growth of public school music since its introduction by Lowell Mason in Boston in 1838. In the churches opportunity is offered in sermons on music—its value in religion, home and community, and also in special programs by organists and choirs. Sacred concerts with massed choirs are becoming a feature of the observance in many places and are proving one means of promoting co-operation among the churches. In libraries a display of books on music and musical figures is suggested. Musical films may be aptly used in motion picture houses during Music Week. And thus it goes on—the radio with its special programs, the press with editorials and articles pertaining to the value of music and the value of a special observance, such as National Music Week; music clubs and women's clubs with special programs if possible and in particular co-operation with local bodies in their endeavors to observe Music Week in its true spirit. The parent-teacher associations offer opportunity for special programs from the parents and others the value the schools, thus demonstrating to public school music holds.

As in previous years the featuring of American music is recommended. The occasion offers an exceptionally appropriate opportunity to give recognition and needed encouragement to our American composers, and to acquaint the American public with their work.

This year's slogan is: Support Group Activities. It appeals to civic pride and promotes community spirit. It will remind a lethargic public of the need for positive action and the inadequacy of mere passive approval, if it desires to give the encouragement which is usually necessary. Orchestras, and bands, whether professional or amateur, glee clubs, mixed choruses and chamber music groups, school or adult, are all an asset to any town or city, and are not only a stimulus to the cultural development of the individual member, but also a means for enriching the life of the community. These are the things which make up the very essence of the spirit of democracy. Educators and civic leader alike realize that the cultural growth of any city is synonymous with the enrichment of its community and individual life. It is an important and vital movement, this National Music Week, and everyone is urged to give hearty support to the observance of it.

HORACE T. PERRY

Services for Horace T. Perry, who died Saturday at the home of Perry H. Fisk, Owl's Head, were held yesterday afternoon at the Burpee funeral home. Rev. J. Charles MacDonald officiating. The bearers were Neil S. Perry, Theodore E. Perry, Leroy D. Perry and Charles N. Perry. The interment was in Thomaston.

The deceased had been ailing for several years, but his actual confinement to the house was only one week.

Born in this city 46 years ago, a son of Newton H. and Winnie (Philbrook) Perry, he had led a busy life serving as steward at the Maine State Prison under Warden G. A. Baker; fitting out stewards departments on warships built at Bath, as steward on Standard Oil boats, and as chef in local restaurants. He had also worked as painter and carpenter. He was a member of the Rockland Naval Reserves three years. Of a quiet disposition he nevertheless made many friends and was efficient in the tasks assigned to him.

His wife, who was Ruth Oliver of Thomaston, died 14 years ago. The surviving relatives are four sons, Charles N., of Lawrence, Mass., Clarence of Union, Waldo W., of Damariscotta and Gordon P., of Rockland; three daughters, Mrs. Stanley Quinn of North Haven, Barbara H. and Pauline, Rockland, two grandchildren, Jane and Judith Quinn; three brothers, Leroy D. Perry, Neil S. Perry and Theodore E. Perry of Rockland and a sister, Mrs. Nina Greeley of Rockland.

The ninth annual National Premium Buyers' Exposition was held in Chicago last week at the Palmer House. E. W. Porter, formerly of Rockland, is vice president of the Premium Advertising Association of America, and an excellent portrait of him appears in the elaborate booklet issued in connection with the proceedings.

Carroll Wixson and William Dorman were elected deacons at the annual meeting of the Littlefield Memorial Church, the latter also being elected chairman of the board of trustees. Reports presented showed an excellent condition of business affairs. The church at the present time has 134 members. During the past year several improvements have been made, notably the construction and furnishing of a classroom for the young men's class, taught by the pastor, Rev. Charles A. Marsteller.

Died In The Night

Mrs. Etta Wall Stanton's Demise Due To Alcoholic Poisoning

When Carl Benson, a local fisherman, undertook to arouse Mrs. Etta Wall Stanton at the home of John Whalen on Pink street this morning she made no response, and it was found that she had died during the night.

Medical Examiner H. J. Weisman examined the body at the Russell funeral home and gave a verdict of death from acute alcoholic poisoning. The woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wall, were notified at Dix Island.

The case was investigated by the city's new special patrolman, Frank C. Bridges.

Cloth made in Germany from coal and chalk begins to melt below boiling point, which makes it risky to send it to the laundry or press one of the richest collections of it with a hot iron.

Granite manufacturers and representatives of the paving cutters are holding a conference at the Parker House in Boston as this paper goes to press. And everybody in Knox County hopes for a speedy settlement.

The annual meeting of the Rockland Parent-Teacher Association and the award of the D.A.R. citizenship medals will be held in June according to the vote of last night's meeting held at High School auditorium. The speaker was Edward N. Brush, associate professor of psychology at University of Maine.

Members of the D.U.V. Sewing Circle met yesterday afternoon for a picnic lunch at 6 o'clock. The game party was well attended and the awards, including home cooked foods, were well chosen. Mrs. Eliza Plummer, chairman, announced a benefit party in the hall Friday night sponsored by the Auxiliary to Sons of Union Veterans and Ruth Mayhew Tent; Doris Ames and Maude Cables chairmen.

National literary recognition has been accorded to Miss Elizabeth O. Marsh of 77 Broad street whose poem "Tempus Fugit," has been accepted for inclusion in The World's Fair Anthology of 1939, to be published by The Exposition Press, New York City. The author, who competed in a $100 poetry prize contest still open to all poets, had to withstand tremendous meritorious competition in order to become one of the comparatively select few chosen for representation in the World's Fair Anthology. The author has already achieved publication in The Courier-Gazette, Lewiston Journal and Belfast Journal.

Indicts The Brewer

Nellie G. Burger Tells What the Association Failed To Do

(Reprinted from The Union Signal, by request.)

Continuing her article "Refuting Recent Advertisement of United States Brewers Industrial Foundation," Nellie G. Burger said:

Government Investigation Indicts The Brewer

To be perfectly fair, the brewers should conclude their invitation for public support with a summary of the record of their trade written in the Federal Document Report of the Judiciary, United States Senate, Sixty-Sixth Congress, in 1918 as revealed by sworn testimony before that body:

"... furnished large sums of money for the purpose of secretly controlling newspapers and periodicals."

"... frequently succeeded in controlling primaries, elections and political organizations."

"... contributed enormous sums of money to political campaigns in violation of the ... states ..."

"... exacted pledges from candidates for public office ..."

"... attempted and partly succeeded in subsidizing the public press."

"... resorted to an extensive system of boycotting unfriendly American manufacturing and mercantile concerns."

"... created ... and ... financed their own political organization in many states ..."

"... contributed large sums of money to an organization many of the membership of which were disloyal and unpatriotic."

"... organized clubs, leagues, corporations ... secretly carrying on their political activities."

"... failed to make returns ... for taxation under the revenue laws of the United States ... funds expended for political purpose."

"... undertook ... to control and dominate foreign language press of the United States."

"... subsidized authors of recognized standing ... to write for many standard periodicals."

"... (sustained) a working agreement ... between the brewing and distilling interests of the country ..."

W. S. Alexander, Administrator of Federal Alcohol Administration, said, (in part) before the annual convention of the United States Brewers Association, at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Oct. 27, 1937: "No campaign of education conducted by the Brewing Industry, regardless of how expensive it may be, will ever convince the American public that beer is a soft drink, and that its production and distribution should be regulated only to the same extent. You can never succeed in separating beer from other alcoholic beverages in the public mind, nor can you hoodwink a community into unconcern with the conditions existing in its local taproom."

WARREN BEGINS A DRIVE

Seeks Private Subscriptions For a Junior High School Building

The drive for private subscriptions toward the new two-room Junior High School building has begun with the sending of appeals to citizens, former citizens, alumni, and friends in an emergency call for funds.

The Warren Women's Club is among the first to respond with a pledge of $200 voted Thursday night at the annual meeting.

Following is the form letter to be sent out, the letter planned by the committee in charge, which includes the three selectmen and the three school committee men, and the six appointed by them, Oscar A. Copeland, Maurice M. Cunningham, Virgil E. Hills, William O. Anderson, Leland Philbrook, and Frank D. Rowe.

The letter explains the situation in clear and concise manner. All pledges must be in the committee's hands by June 1, and all pledges paid by September 1, and pledges or contributions are to be sent to Benjamin E. Starrett, member of the school committee, who is treasurer of the fund.

Warren and W. H. S. Girls and Boys Call for Help

Dear friends of Warren girls and boys:

Our young people are calling for your help and your assistance is needed as it has never been in recent years.

Warren High School will have 75 students the coming year, more than the present quarters can possibly accommodate. Something must be done to relieve this crowded condition, or Warren High School will lose the Class A rating which it has had for over 30 years, and the loss would be serious indeed, for all students planning to enter any college, normal school, business college, or hospital for training would have to complete their last two years in some Class A school, and the town would be obliged to pay their tuition. The charge in all of the nearby schools is more than $65.00 a year for each student and there might be many students who would expect to continue their training, which would cost the town association to select streams to be stocked in this county.

Wesley Tolman is employed in Waterville on the painting crew of the Maine Central Railroad.

This committee will have charge of the public supper to be served Thursday by the Congregational Ladies Circle: Mrs. Willis Vinal, Mrs. Albert White, Mrs. Robert Walker, Mrs. Samuel Norwood, Mrs. Albert Ordway and Mrs. James MacDougall.

Pupils of the Intermediate school attend Friday afternoon with the grammar school pupils for the music hour. A delightful program was given under the direction of Mrs. Willis Vinal, supervisor of music in the schools, with Mrs. LeRoy Norwood as accompanist. The program contained among other numbers: Chorus, "America the Beautiful," vocal solo by Mary Ludwig; "Moon Song," Flora Simmons, Evelyn Wotton, Joyce Halligan, Jeanette Perry, Lillian Durrell, Barbara Perry; "All Through the night," "A Farewell Song," "Gondoliers," and "Listen to the Mocking Bird"; "Bluebird Song," Ralph Perry, Harvel Crockett, Harold Pease, Roland Jose, accompanied by the Intermediate school, duet by Ann Norwood and Elizabeth Kenniston; "Beautiful Roses of Summer," Elma Moon, Faye Martin, Joyce Hills, Louie Cogan, Patty Moody, Martha Griffin, Lois Norwood, and Mary Norwood; duets, "Blue Danube" and "An Irish Love Song," Robert Wyllie and Alfred Willson.

Work was begun Monday on installation of the traps for catching alewives.

SOUTH THOMASTON

The Little Brown Church

Everyone present agreed that the nicest party ever to take place in this village was that of Friday night in the Grange hall. It was a May Day birthday party for the Sunday school and 100 percent of the membership was present.

After a period of group singing, games and contests, a double line was formed and with Miss Sylvia Tyler at the piano, marched to the lining room and the beautifully decorated tables. At each place was a dainty May basket filled with candy.

In the center of each table stood a large birthday cake bearing one candle, as the affair was planned to celebrate the completion of the first year of the re-organized Sunday school under the direction of Miss Margaret McKnight, director of Rural Religious Education in Knox County.

The baskets of Miss McKnight and her sister, Mrs. Beatrice Brown, were huge and filled with gifts from the Sunday school in token of appreciation. These donations were the work of Mrs. Amos Norton and Miss Mary Bartlett.

After a few minutes of songs, delicacies were served, these being the work of Mrs. Clifford Dennison, Mrs. James Mitchell, Mrs. LeRoy Wiggins, Mrs. Joseph Baum and Mrs. Amos Norton.

Another pleasing feature was the presentation of a handsomely bound Bible by Miss L. Butler, superintendent of the Sunday school, to Norma Graves, Joan Baum, Robert Graves and Joseph Baum, Jr., in appreciation of a year of perfect attendance at Sunday school. At this party, as throughout the work during the year, a spirit of friendly co-operation pervaded.

These officers and teachers have carried on the work under Miss McKnight's efficient leadership: Supt. Miss Louise Butler; treasurer and teacher of Adult Bible Class, Mrs. Charles Wattle; secretary and teacher of intermediate girls, Mrs. Waldo Tyler; pianist and teacher of beginners, Miss Sylvia Tyler; leader and teacher of intermediate boys, Miss McKnight; teacher of Primary class, Mrs. J. T. Baum; teacher of Accredited Bible study for High School age students, Mrs. Bernice Sleeper; substitute teacher, friend, adviser and helper whenever needed, Mrs. Beatrice Brown.

The present enrollment is 51 and the average attendance has been remarkable considering so few Sundays during the year have had good weather. Nearly every child in the village is now enrolled but there's still room and a welcome for many more. So much has been accomplished during the year that it is a matter of gratification to everyone connected with the work.

Every special day has been appropriately observed—Easter, Rally Day, Children's Day, and Christmas, by impressive pageants, all of which were attended by parents and friends. The Accredited Bible Study Course for High School students has been carried on so as to conform to the requirements of the Maine State Department of Education. All members have successfully passed the first tests.

Two teacher training courses have been conducted by Miss McKnight. During the year 18 have been taken into full membership in the church and eight baptized, two of whom were infants. At the beginning of the year there were only two living members of the church and no new ones had been added for 15 years.

Being financially unable to support a resident pastor here, religious work has suffered seriously in spite of having had many fine supply pastors. The one hour each week which each was able to give to the work here, besides his regular pastorate elsewhere, proved wholly inadequate.

Miss McKnight has formed a Young People's Society which, as soon as well established, will be affiliated with the Epworth League. The purpose of this society is to train future leaders. These officers have charge: President, Oliver Hamilton, Jr.; vice presidents, Edward Tyler, Warren Ulmer, Marjorie Wiggins, Dorothy Baum; secretary, Elsie Norton; treasurer, Joan Baum; song leader, Geraldine Jackson; pianist, Sylvia Tyler.

This group holds services every Sunday night in the church and are anxious for all parents and friends to attend. In addition to the regular work of the Sunday school, special activities are being planned for the near future. These include an entertainment known as "Palestine in Color, Song and Legend," under the auspices of the Senior Class; an exhibition of curios from foreign lands and a fine program; a father and son banquet, a mother and daughter banquet, a community picnic at a neighboring beach and many more.

Behind this work for the improvement of the youth of the town, is the Ladies Aid, led by Miss Louise Butler.

On every side one hears words of praise for Miss McKnight's work in this town.

It Is One Word

I. G. Calderwood Finds He Was Wrong About Spelling Of "Vinalhaven"

Vinalhaven, May 2.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—After writing my criticism of Postmaster Drew's article on the proper spelling of the name of the town, one of my friends asked if I had proof that my statements were correct. Since my assertions were based entirely on what older people had told me it appeared that there might be a mistake, so I secured from the secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts a certified photostat copy of the Act of Incorporation which I enclose.

This document proves that my understanding of the matter was entirely in error and that the one word spelling, viz. Vinalhaven, was and always has been correct.

Will you kindly publish the Act as shown on the photostat verbatim.

I. G. Calderwood.

"Swift Flies the Falcon"

"Darkness lay like a shroud over the gray castle of Penbridge-on-the-Heights that cold night late in April." Thus Esther Melbourne Knox commences "Swift Flies the Falcon" (John C. Winston Co. $2.00).

About a year before this night in April the Earl of Penbridge had gone to Jerusalem with other bands of those who wore the Scarlet Cross, leaving his son Gareth and his 14-year-old daughter, Margaret, in the care of his brother, Duke Howell. The Duke was the scheming sort. He was making plans to take over the castle.

Gareth schemed, too, for he had not heard from his father; he felt the deceit in his uncle's voice. What were his plans? "Swift Flies the Falcon" tells the story of the journey from the castle in England to Jerusalem. The loyal band numbered the young lord and his lady riding ahead, a shabby aged man in priest's tattered clothes, sitting in a lurching cart urging the oxen on, Jon, a frail fellow, and a pair of ragged minstrels. They carried with them Deev, a royal falcon, and Vul, their dog. Deev hunted many meals throughout the forest areas. Margaret carried a carved chest containing bags of gold, which the minstrels protected by street singing. Enroute the band learned that "travel is a great leveller." These are truths at Antioch!

The book is a panorama of enchanting experiences. It is a delightfully readable book of youthful enthusiasm stimulated by stout courage in the "Cruciala."

Ruth King, a nationally known illustrator, has drawn 22 pictures typical of the First Crusade.

REALM OF MUSIC

by Gladys St. Clair Heistad

Representatives of Paramount Studio and the NBC Artists Bureau are working out final arrangements for the film debut of Dr. Walter Damrosch, 71-year-old dean of American conductor. The distinguished musician is scheduled to play himself in the forthcoming Bing Crosby picture, "The Star Maker" which is based on the life and songs of Gus Edwards. He is slated to appear in an important sequence in the film with Linda Ware, 13-year-old singing discovery and will lead a symphony orchestra which accompanies the child in her singing number in the picture.

Worcester has the largest Civic Music Association in the country. When the rolls closed this year for next season's concerts 246 of those on the paid waiting list were made eligible for membership, to be added to the 3255 renewals, which bring the number up to the 3500 (seating capacity of the Municipal Auditorium).

I am indebted to Nell Tolman for a splendidly gotten up program of Marian Anderson's recent Worcester concert which she attended. One reviewer of the concert said: "Miss Anderson left with us the vivid impression of a voice of rare beauty, a gift of original interpretation tempered with true artistry and understanding, and the imprint of a personality of real charm, dignity, and intelligence. Tall and well-proportioned, she made a striking picture in her sweeping gown of colorful velvet. From the first deep beautifully sustained note, it was a thrilling evening. In Schubert's 'Ave Maria' her marvelously expressive voice was like a prayer that went straight to the heart."

In the review of her recent New York recital, this appears: "It is unnecessary to reiterate praise of Miss Anderson's voice and her manner of using it. In spite of its being an authentic contralto it seemed, at this recital, to be most woeful and most varied in color in its middle and high register. Certainly no singer of any race at the present time can compare with her in her manner of coming upon the stage and her deportment while there. It is a lesson many singers would do well to study."

Commenting upon a remark made recently regarding the offering of a prize for a musical composition—the details escape me at the moment—it is amazing what a number of such prizes are now made possible by various organizations. In the May issue of Etude alone five competitions are outlined—not merely for composition, but for performance and study. For example—A prize of $500 is offered by the Henry Hadley Foundation for the best composition in any of the major forms to be submitted within the autumn months. And here's another: "A one thousand dollar honorarium towards one year of piano study with Tobias Matthay in London, is offered by the American Matthay Association, Inc. The contest will be held in May, in New York city, and candidates will take a preliminary examination in theoretical subjects, and play a 'Prelude and Fugue' from 'The Well-Tempered Clavier' of Bach, the First Movement from Beethoven's 'Sonata Appassionata,' and a composition of not more than six minutes in length of their own selection." Prizes ranging from $3,000 down to $500 are offered for chorus performance at the New York World's Fair. The Euridice Chorus of Philadelphia offers a prize of $100 for a Chorus for Women's Voices. Prizes of $200 each are offered in the John Haussermann Prize competition for a composition for organ alone, and for one for organ, strings, horns, and tympani, or any part of this combination—and so on. Every musical journal such as Musical America, Musical Courier, The Etude etc., list or note such competitions in every issue.

For the first time on record an American orchestral work has been played in Helsinki, Finland at a regular symphony concert. Martti Simila, rapidly rising young conductor, recently conducted the Helsinki Municipal Orchestra in Samuel Barber's "Music for a Scene from Shelley." Impartial hearers were impressed by Mr. Barker's talent, the report comes to this country. "It is modern," was the tone of their remarks, "but it does not commit the composer to a sensitive ear for tone color, and orchestrates discriminatingly."

The recently organized National Committee for American Music, with a membership of 1,000,000 musicians, co-sponsored an all-American orchestral concert of works by Guggenheim Fellows, to be presented by the Composers' Forum-Laboratory of the W.P.A. Federal Music Project on May 7 in Carnegie Hall, New York city, ushering in the project's observance of National Music Week. Composers represented on the program were: Aaron Copland, Walter Piston, Roy Harris, Paul Nordoff and William Schuman.

And speaking further of all American music—at the request of Telford Phillips, noted pianist and teacher, a concert entirely of American works was given by the Societe des Concerts du Conservatoire with Charles Munch conducting in the grand amphitheatre of the Sorbonne on March 29, with works by Walter Piston, Edward MacDowell, Randall Thompson, Aaron Copland and others appearing on the program.

Maudie Adams, idol of theatre goers of former decades, is a skillful violinist, having given the instrument serious study in her youth.

A musical novelty is said to be a small harmonica attached to the stem of a pipe. And now its inventor is puzzled as to whether it is to be christened as a pipe organ or a mouth organ!

In May 1924 The Etude showed a little editorial entitled "Trouble and Music" which has been reprinted many times by request. Even again comes a request, and The Etude shows it in its May issue just at hand:

"Never was there an anodyne for trouble that could compare with music. There seems to come a time when this dear angel of relief touches the world-tired brow of the soul in brief saying: 'Look up. Tomorrow the sun shines once more. Joy shall come again. Listen I am singing of the beauties of life here and hereafter: 'If music had no other office than this its value to mankind would be infinite. Blessed is he who can sing when the darkening clouds seem to smother the joy of life. 'The ability to play an instrument has been a godsend to many a man where trouble has come so fast that there seemed no way out.

Music cleans the brain of sorrow and worry and fits one to take up the load of responsibility with renewed vigor."

Membership Gain

National W.C.T.U. Adding 3000 a Month To Its Rolls

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—More than 3,000 new members are joining the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union every month. Anna Marden DeYo, secretary, announced at National W.C.T.U. headquarters.

"When we consider that these new members joined us without any spectacular contests, the steady month-by-month growth in membership is all the more significant," Mrs. DeYo declared.

"It indicates most forcibly the widespread rising resentment against the sale and use of alcohol. These new members do not come from just one or two key States, but the gains are general throughout the entire nation.

"Especially gratifying to us is the fact that our far from complete report shows that hundreds of brand new units have been organized, including Loyal Temperance Leagues, Youth's Temperance Councils and Iota Sigma Units, all predominantly youth groups. In a number of counties the National W.C.T.U. units were organized for the first time in history.

"One of the most striking developments is that in many States the largest number of new members were obtained by members who not so very long ago were recruits themselves. This is another important trend in the cause of temperance. Never before have the youth of the land been so active and interested in temperance."

"This tremendous increase of 3,000 new members a month follows the enrollment of 34,000 recruits last year. Mrs. DeYo said, adding that a steady membership gain has been reported by the National W.C.T.U. every year since 1901.

"There are a number of outstanding factors which account for the added interest in the goals to which the National W.C.T.U. has dedicated itself since 1901."

"National interest is centering on the battle against drink, dope and disease—a battle in which the National W.C.T.U. took the lead and is pushing more vigorously than ever. Our organization was the first of its kind to have the unadorned facts regarding alcohol and dope compiled by disinterested scientific research. A leader for scientific alcohol education in the schools, youth has become interested in both the social and scientific aspects of this pressing problem.

"The drinking driver the ravages of liquor when women drink, the utter lack of any control over the number of places selling liquor and flaunting of all restrictive regulation have all contributed to a united front against drink, dope and disease."

This And That

That noble institution, the Grenfell Mission in Labrador, has hopes to ally the great scourge of tuberculosis with plenty of milk and is encouraging the families there to keep cows. The herd of pedigreed cattle which has been given to this Mission has furnished milk for the hospital of 100 beds. The Mission owns pigs and hens and encourages agricultural progress.

Having two very dear friends who are much disturbed by their fear of cats, an item that the great Napoleon was afflicted with this same fear intrigued me. It is found that psychiatrists term it aelurophobia or an inherent fear of cats. Not "The Black Cat" variety, however, that all have learned to respect.

With 12,000,000 in this land unemployed it would be seriously against the best interests of the people to accept these refugee children that have been so cavalierly thrust out of their homes onto the world, and no matter how much hearts are torn by the call and needs, people must think and act judiciously for the good of all these children included.

And remember this, too: It's the handclasp and the good word and the smile that does the most, and helps the most to make the world worth while.

Now comes to light a camel-headed sea serpent with eyes the size of hot cross buns they say. This comes from Astoria, Ore., and the skipper said, "He could have sunk our ship with a nudge." This monster with the great staring eyes and a neck 10 feet long might be a relative of the one the late Willard Wall of Tenants Harbor saw when he was fishing out near Metinic with a companion who also saw the great creature some distance away. This latest monster, the captain said, was nonchalantly chewing up a 20-pound halibut. Some of the crew wanted to go after it with the boat hook, but Captain Anderson put a quick stop to that and while they were watching for its next move it ducked out of sight.

Mothers' Day Origin

Is Traced Back To Plea Made By Frank E. Hering, An Eagle

The first known public plea for a nation-wide observance of Mothers' Day was made by an Eagle Frank E. Hering, Feb. 1904. The occasion was the annual memorial exercises held by Indianapolis Aerie for its deceased members.

More than a quarter of a century later, July 24, 1930, 23 men and women who had heard the address, signed a sworn statement which reads in part:

"On a Sunday afternoon in February, 1904 at the English Opera House, Indianapolis Aerie No. 211 of the Fraternal Order of Eagles held memorial exercises.

"At these services Frank H. Hering in words that were touching in their devotion and fragrant with sentiment ascribed the goodness that is in men to mother-love; he traced the evolution of civilization through the sacrifices of motherhood; he asserted that the hopes of mankind were dependent on the devotion and the unselfish love of mothers.

"On this winter afternoon he voiced the thoughts and impulses that abide in the hearts of men and with God-given vision he urged and pleaded for the setting aside of one day in the year as a nation-wide memorial to the memory of mothers and mother-hood.

"The thought set forth and the sentiment invoked touched and quickened the heartbeat of the multitude of men and women present.

"They became earnest advocates of the memorial and from that historic address and its noble inspiration has come a world-observed anniversary.

"Mothers' Day Such was its birth. Its inspiration has moved the civilized world."

This was the manner in which the ideal of Mothers' Day was first expressed. The Fraternal Order of Eagles lost no time in making the ideal a reality. Aeries in all parts of the country—and in scores of other cities—began to hold programs appropriate to the Day. So widespread did the observance of Mothers' Day become within the Order that in 1912 the Grand Aerie, meeting in Cleveland, enacted a law making the holding of Mothers' Day exercises official. This action, it is worth noting, took place two years before President Wilson, by proclamation designated the second Sunday of May as Mothers' Day.

As Mothers' Day became national and then international, the inevitable happened. After it had been firmly established as a day set apart from all others on which we reverence mothers and motherhood, various organizations and individuals advanced the claim that they had first sponsored the memorial.

The facts refute their claims. Over a period of many years, newspapers and magazines have published editorials and articles attributing Mothers' Day to the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Senators and Representatives have incorporated our part in Mothers' Day in the Congressional Record. Scores of radio orators have given credit where credit is due.

The American War Mothers, a patriotic organization composed of women whose sons served in the World War, paid us a generous tribute. From documentary evidence, examined before they had any knowledge of the Indianapolis meeting in 1904, they determined that the inspiration for the present Mothers' Day came from an Eagle and that the medium through which the campaign was carried on was the Fraternal Order of Eagles. At the first Mothers' Day exercises held at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in 1925, the War Mothers, who sponsored the program, invited a representative of the Fraternal Order of Eagles to be the principal speaker—From the Eagle Magazine

A Menace To Beauty

Is the Unfortunate Habit Of Dumping Cast-Off Material Hither and Yon

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—Rockland is a charming city of homes with a great many attractive and beautiful residences, lovely gardens, glorious shade trees, many excellently cared for streets and sidewalks. The city has unusually fine schools, the hospital stands with any in the State, the library a joy to all who see it or enter, the nurses home of such high quality in every feature that it would be a credit to any city.

Rockland is noted for its number and high class of churches and religious life. The business streets grow more finished in class and quality of high grade business, homes, factories and trade centers, and justly are citizens proud of this. A community of this size needs plenty of money to keep it in repair and orderly as New England tradition expects and demands, and it's well for every citizen to take keen interest in all parts and conditions that exist.

Probably few realize that there are many unsightly banks whereon the wild thyme cannot grow because they are used for dumps at the bottoms as well as at the side. The city has many of these high banks where, without thinking what the larger effect will be, persons have got into the habit of dumping surplus things they wish to dispose of and without realizing the consequences.

These dumps are not only a menace to beauty but a real menace to health. These can easily be cleared and made into places of real charm with only a little time and work and earnest desire to make of Rockland a spotless town worthy of its high grade of citizenship.

One place it is hoped to see developed is the square that takes in the Library, the Community building, the lovely little Episcopal Church and the land that corners on Limerock and White streets. This complete section to be landscaped into a beautiful park effect that with the Hospital garden, will give an unusually beautiful centre for the prosperous community where many will visit this summer and comment on its fine citizenship.

Threaten Again

Army Worms Do Much Damage To The Farm Crops

Army worms have been unusually destructive during the past two years. Grain, corn, and hay were severely injured in certain areas of Waldo, Kennebec, Cumberland, Hancock, Washington, and Penobscot Counties. There is danger of yet more widespread devastation if weather conditions are favorable again to army worm development during the coming spring and summer, in the opinion of Dr. J. H. Hawkins of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station.

The Extension Service and the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station are keeping in close touch with the army worm situation and warnings will be issued in case of any threatening developments. Army worms hatch from eggs laid by a brownish moth which has a small white spot in each of the fore wings. The moths are about an inch in length when the wings are folded and they commonly hover about lights at night. They are on the wing from May to July and anyone can perform a service to Maine agriculture by notifying the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station of the flight of a large number of moths and by sending specimens in for identification. Entomologists of the Experiment Station and county agents will be ready to outline control methods for any army worm outbreaks which occur so that unnecessary spread and injury to crops may be prevented.

over a period of at least 400 years and their collectors are numerous and enthusiastic. Many early bookplates were used in the 18th and 19th centuries, in America that of George Washington being a much sought ex-libris.

Interest in America in collecting was possibly first aroused in 1892 when Charles Dexter Allen then of Hartford whose plates designed by Mr. Hopson is in many exhibitions, published the first American book on the subject of bookplates.

Mr. Allen included all the work of Mr. Hopson and his work is sought by collectors throughout the world. The Yale Library is one of the fortunate possessors of an almost complete collection of his plates, but even its collection is not sufficient for some of the greatest sharks in this line.

THE SCHOOLHOUSE WOODS

[For The Courier-Gazette] As I'm looking o'er the treasure in my memory's stock of goods In my fancy ever standing I can see the schoolhouse woods There upon the Harbor hillside just behind the house red.

Where so many happy hours of my childhood swiftly fled, I can see the pointed fir trees with their balsam blistered bark And their spruces pitchy smelling with their tall trunks bristling stark See the well trod pathway running downward through them to the "Graciously" we found.

To the swimming hole so handy where we used to hurry quick, See us youngsters playing squirrel as we climbed from tree to tree Till the teacher's bell so quickly made an end of all our glee. In those woods hid many a truant when he ran away from school. He so hated Aesop's fables austere discipline and rule.

No gymnasium in the city with its full equipment art Ever furnished such enjoyment to a schoolboy's careless heart. Though we may forget the knowledge we acquired then so sound We can never forget the pleasures in the schoolhouse woods we found. Allison M. Watts Jamaica, Vt.

WELCOME MAY

[For The Courier-Gazette] Young April with her smiles and tears Has had her little day, And time decrees that she retire— Give place to smiling May.

Oh May! Oh, may you quickly bring The joy of sunshine, less of rain, Or just mayhap a gentle shower To cleanse the earth then sun again.

We welcome thee, oh lovely May! Thou open'st the gate to paradise, To birds and buds and full bloom flower, To soothing winds and smiling skies.

Pray haste thee on thy journey sweet! Fulfill thy promise as of old, Bring to our hearts the joy complete— The sweetest message ever told Elizabeth O. Marsh Rockland

LAMENT

[For The Courier-Gazette] The dishes are waiting in the sink, And I must think of meat and drink, When I would rather play!

I guess I am a slattern, And not much of a pattern, For a busy day!

But the paper says, "The fair has opened in a blaze of glory!"

And me I have a home to keep, So, I'll stay home and bake and sweep The same old story!

GOD'S BLESSINGS

[For The Courier-Gazette] All the good that is within me Breaks forth in praise to God For the blessings that He gives me— The comfort of His word.

For we read within its pages, The message that is true, "I will not leave you comfortless, I will come to you."

Oh! The many, many blessings That come to us each day; Sometimes we do not heed them, As we go along life's way.

But when sorrow comes to greet us And we really need a friend, He said, "I will be with you Always, even to the end."

So, if we read our Bible, And consider what we read, We will find He will be with us In every time of need.

And our prayers ascending to Him, With thankfulness and praise, Will in turn descend upon us, With love through endless days. Debra E. Morrill Rockport

ALMOST SEVEN CENTS

Is the Amount of Hidden Taxes on a Package of Cigarets

Hidden taxes on a package of cigarettes equal almost seven cents—according to data on cigarette production and taxes prepared by William A. Hollingsworth, president of the Retail Tobacco Dealers of America, Inc.

Mr. Hollingsworth set the 1938 cigarette output at 163 billions, equivalent to 8,150,000,000 packages of 20 each. He estimated Internal Revenue collections to be approximately 490 million dollars and municipal cigarette taxes 55 millions.

This total of 545 million dollars of taxes is equivalent to 6.7 cents per package. With the average price of cigarettes about 15 cents, this means that almost half of the price of cigarettes goes for taxes.

It's our profound belief that some of the best cooks work their miracles with the simplest of the least expensive materials. If you can spurge around with in-cosly items on the grocery list, fine. But if you can't you are by no means ruled out from the sisterhood of inspired cooks. That's why we like to gather up all the "squibs" of information about getting flavor into simple foods, best recipes for everyday dishes and the little "grace notes" you add to the daily symphonies you play on your kitchen range.

For instance have you tried Lemon Chive butter over fish, boiled new potatoes or asparagus? Just two tablespoons of lemon juice to a half cup of melted butter and about a tablespoon of finely cut chives or chopped green onion tops. It does things in the way of flavor.

If the relish shelf is low do you know chopped cooked beets, blended with a half cup of sugar, six tablespoons of vinegar and 1 cup of horseradish combined and left overnight to ripen makes a slick relish. Did you try adding a sliced banana and a half cup of sliced apple (marinated in French dressing so they won't discolor) to cole slaw? It sounds odd, but it's good, especially if cabbage, finely shredded and crisp is combined with finely cut celery for the slaw.

Spiced rhubarb makes a fine relish to serve with meats; rhubarb pie with hot lemon sauce is a culinary triumph and there are those who like a grating of orange peel in rhubarb pie. (We're afraid of reprimands since the eastern letters about combining pineapple with rhubarb for a pie; we still like it but whisper that one for several voiced disapproval.) A Rhubarb Compote is plain and old fashioned but delicious and we've always loved Norwegian Rhubarb Pudding than which nothing could be simpler.

Just three cups of cooked and sweetened rhubarb and five tablespoons of corn starch, stirred in a little cold water and added to the boiling sauce. Stir in corn starch mixture, cook until clear and serve cold with this cream.

Do you know what a good luncheon sandwich can be made by combining a thin slice of ham and a thin slice of cheese between slices of buttered bread, dip the sandwiches in French toast mixture and saute in plenty of butter? Tiny versions of these are a hit as hors d'oeuvres. What's your discovery in the realm of "eats" that's simple, inexpensive and still mighty good?

Rhubarb Compote

One and one-half pounds rhubarb, 1 cup sugar, 1 (2 inch) stick cinnamon, 1 orange, fresh mint. Cut rhubarb in 4 inch lengths (do not peel); combine with sugar. Put in casserole. Break stick cinnamon in small pieces; add. Cover; bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 40 minutes or until rhubarb is tender. Stir gently once during baking. Remove from oven. Chill. Arrange in individual serving dishes. Garnish with orange slices and fresh mint. Serves four.

Spiced Rhubarb

One cup sugar, 12 cloves, 1 (3 inch) piece of stick cinnamon, 1 cup water, 1 cup rhubarb cut in 1/2 inch pieces. Combine sugar, spices and water and boil until the syrup spins a thread. Add rhubarb and keep at a rolling boil for 2 minutes. Allow to cool slowly and then chill. Serve with meats. Approximate yield; 1 cup sauce.

Rhubarb Pie

One recipe plain pastry, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, well beaten, 3 cups rhubarb, cut in 1/2 inch pieces. Line 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Combine remaining ingredients and pour into pastry shell. Cover with upper crust and bake in hot oven (425 deg. F.) for 10 minutes and then reduce heat to moderate (325 deg. F.) and bake 25 to 30 minutes longer. Serve with hot Lemon Sauce. Approximate yield: 1 9-inch pie.

Hot Lemon Sauce

Two tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 1/2 cups boiling water, 1 egg beaten.

Cream butter and sugar together; add flour, salt, lemon juice and rind. Add boiling water gradually, stirring until mixture thickens. Add to beaten egg and cook 2 minutes longer; but do not allow to boil. Approximate yield: 2 cups sauce.

In The Holy Land

Is Being Dedicated By Hadassah, Today Million Dollar Medical Center

Twenty-seven years ago, two American nurses were sent to the Holy Land, then a Turkish protectorate, by Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America to bring a humble program of public health nursing to a country long known for its poverty and disease.

Today, after more than a quarter of a century of intensive health work, Hadassah together with the American Jewish Physicians' Committee will open and dedicate a million dollar medical center, the kind of institution of which those early health pioneers could only dream. The unit has been named the Rothschild-Hadassah-University Hospital and Medical School.

The new medical center consists of a modern 300 bed hospital with complete medical and surgical departments, x-ray and radiology institutes, diagnostic laboratories, and out-patient departments; a graduate school of medicine with laboratories for research and teaching affiliated with the Hebrew University; and a nurses' training school and residence named for Henrietta Szold, founder of Hadassah.

A magnificent view of the ancient city of Jerusalem, with the hills of Moab, the River Jordan and the Dead Sea far in the distance can be had from the site. Among the 79 refugee physicians already working with the Hadassah Medical Organization in Palestine are such outstanding physicians as Dr. Bernard Zondek, co-discoverer of the Aschheim-Zondek test for pregnancy; Dr. Ludwig Halberstaedter, cancer specialist; Dr. Emilio Enrico Franco, former professor of pathological surgery and anatomy at the Royal University of Pisa; the expert medical statistician, Dr. Robert Bachi, formerly of Rome, and many others.

For Hadassah the new development is the climax of more than a quarter of a century of steady progress in curing the sick, preventing disease and teaching the people of Palestine to keep themselves well by proper personal and social hygiene. In the course of these years Hadassah has spread a network of curative and preventive institutions throughout the country, including the only tuberculosis hospital in all of Palestine, has waged successful war against endemic diseases—most notably trachoma and malaria, raised standards of medicine, introduced modern methods of treatment, advanced health education among the masses, trained graduate nurses, given specialized post-graduate courses to physicians, helped to establish medical service, and through all these activities lifted the health norm of the country so that Palestine is looked upon by neighboring states as a criterion and leader in health progress.

HERE'S AN INTERESTING CIGARETTE COMPARISON... See how it's made by Al Conklin of Dartmouth

SMOKERS all over the country are learning what A. R. Conklin (right) is showing a group of Dartmouth men. It's a striking way to compare cigarettes by simply watching them burn! Al is testing the leading brands to find the one that burns slowest! Which brand won? C-A-M-E-L... by a wide margin! The reason? Costlier tobaccos, expertly blended in a cigarette that burns slowly, completely—smokes cooler, of course!

Recently, a group of scientists ran this interesting laboratory test on a bigger scale. 16 of the largest-selling cigarette brands were rated impartially. CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR THE OTHER BRANDS. (Camels were remarkably consistent.) IN THE SAME TEST, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR ALL THE OTHER BRANDS.

Camel is the cigarette of costlier tobaccos... a cooler, milder, better-tasting smoke... every cigarette... every pack!

"Look how slowly the Camel burns compared to the other brands," Albert Conklin points out to the bunch. Everyone agrees that Camels win hands down. "No wonder Camels smoke so cool and mild," Al adds. "And that must have a lot to do with why Camels have such an appealing taste!"

Smoking is Believing!

WHEN you've enjoyed the thrill of a mellow, ripe-tasting Camel, you'll know that NOTHING can take the place of costlier tobaccos! What a wonderful pleasure it is to get set with a cigarette that is really mild—a matchless blend, made to give you all the pleasure in smoking.

Camels have more tobacco by weight than the average of the 15 other brands tested. Besides, Camels burn slower than any of those other brands. And by burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands, Camels give you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

Camels give you even more for your money when you count in Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. Buy shrewdly! Buy Camels... America's first choice for a luxury smoke every smoker can afford!

Camel's slower burning (compared to the average time of the 15 other brands tested) gives you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack! You economize while enjoying smoking pleasure at its best!
